Logan Jan'y 18th 1880.
Miss Nora E. Crockett.

My dear Nora! Your reminder was not needed, to impress upon my mind, that I was indebted to you for a letter. I will send you some questions with pleasure and hope your class will do well on them.

Our school is full. I have no vacant seat - there are fortyfive little folks and Bro. Apperly's room is full. Our first class are studying Philosophy, History, Physiology and Rhetoric. They are solving problems in three or more unknown quantities. To night Mr Parkinson and Mr Cragan are writing a composition about clouds. The house is full - only twenty six of us and eighteen of the number are boys.

How are you getting along with-your school? How about the kissing?

I suppose your folks will write you every week and tell you all the news. You know I am no news hand - for I don't go anywhere to hear any.

I think you will find the following examples will be a good test for your class.

Page 264. Ex. 12. 19.

" 265 Ex. 25, 28. 30. 33

" 266. Ex. 43.

" 268. Ex. 52, 55, 59.

After you have examined them
send me word please, how they do -
the lowest and highest percentages.

I will write you again
soon and a longer letter.

Yours in love
Eda Dow Cook.
