talking of going to Iowa to the -air. Have been having stormy weather most all the time since you were here Lucil + 3 kids were for an hr. or so feeling and acting as usual

She told me she was going to have something to say about Dugs business I told her the best thing for her to do was to keep out of his business that he was perfectly capable of attending to it. She said she had been a good help mate, I said no one said she was but I said the best thing she could do was to just let him alone if he wanted to take part in dividing the place, he knew what he could do better than she could tell him besides it was his family affairs.
I made the chalk line broad with so much so she can't help but see it.
She will know if she knows a thing that I think different from she as to the Reams not being as smart, but find is out of my class. I entirely and not coming back to my knowledge & I think I know. Got some more crap paper.

Our Irrigation meeting is at 10 o'clock.
A lot of work to do on ditch. I have not been round on the ranch at all this yr.
I am wanting to keep from getting hurtled I get everything fixed up. & as soon as the hay is up & grain cut-ted things will have to be done. Harvest is ready I get next the binder starts Had a hail storm & knocked out a lot - about 1/4 of it. So life goes but - I hope the Old folks Pention goes.

back paper I read

Handwritten cursive text, mostly illegible due to blurring and bleed-through. The text appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly names or dates, written in a fluid, connected script.

DE NISE

Handwritten cursive text on lined paper, likely a page from a notebook or journal. The text is written in a fluid, cursive style and appears to be a list or a series of entries. The words are difficult to decipher due to the cursive script and the torn edges of the paper. The text is written on a piece of aged, yellowish paper with horizontal blue lines. The top edge of the paper is jaggedly torn. The handwriting is consistent throughout, with varying line heights and slants. The overall appearance is that of a personal or working document.
