Dear Mother:

I am utterly ashamed of myself for not having written you many days ago. I am unable to find words to express my shame & regret for failing to write you for Mother's day. I thought of you many times & how sweet many times to write you that time, but just simply have it been able to squeeze it in. Now I have written in my telephone book almost a month old that I have but had time to transfer to my cards where they speak dollar cents.

This remodeling almost got me down and then the moving etc. The garage is still packed full & the car standing outside.

I sometimes feel like throwing up the sponge & leaving it all. Still it is necessary to make a living - and running away won't help at all. So after due consideration I try to do what I can & hope to get caught up some day.

Yours of yesterday just arrived and I see from it, that you would certainly enjoy a trip back to the old home. I don't blame you in the least. I also know that the folks there would be very happy for you to return.

I wish I could see into the future and advise you accordingly.

The girls surely had their reasons for wanting you to remain especially when we know you are doing alright.

and naturally the change, excitement and exertion must be considered.

Now you seem to get along very nicely while however though your pressure did go up a little

I thought I come for this out yesterday but was unable to do so. I hope I can finish now.

The are all well & the baby is doing nicely. We are almost settled & I wish you could come and stay with us.

As for the trip to Idaho. I don't see that there should be any particular danger if your blood pressure could be controlled. As nervous excitement & emotional upsets should be avoided.

It would be a very good idea if you could go up in the mountains there to see how the altitude affects you. Maybe 2-3 hrs at 7-8000 ft elevation should give you some idea as to how the Idaho altitude would affect you.

I understand from Milton that Beulah is planning on leaving later in June.

The train ride should not be hard, but not by auto

Milton & Helen were in a few days ago, the first time Milton has seen our baby over 3 mo. old. They all seem to be doing very nicely.

A letter from Dad says he is getting along pretty well, & the folks up there B.

Our doggie is in very sorry for such a delay & we all send our love to all them

Lovingly yours
Kris
