I merely make the proposition, thinking it may benefit you.
Trusting this will not offend you in any way, I remain, your

Dear Child
I will try and write you a little this evening the boys are gone to meeting so I am alone. We are as well as usual Anna is better Katie has very poor health she is quite sick some times her baby not well he is cutting some double teeth. We have quite cold weather for the last few days the wind is howling to night Henry works up at the College every Monday and after school other days John Reed works there all the time they are picking little roots out of dirt and putting them in glass bottles John gets a dollar and a half a day I do not know what Henry gets, but I think he gets the same Henry has not drawn any pay yet Did you see some of Fred's poetry in the Journal Fred is trying pretty hard to be a poet he is making verses a good deal of the time

I am so sorry that you lost your dear little baby I hope you will have better luck next time I hope <sup>Stella</sup> is getting well and strong again well I do not know what to write I cannot think of any news to write about it I could see you I could talk fast enough Well I cannot think of any thing to write so will have to quit With love to your both hoping to hear from you soon I remain as ever your

Dear sister: Ma has just received your letter and read it. If you havint completed your bargain with Mr. Mills it may be that a propo-tion I shall make would suit you better.

My jersey bull is old enough for service now, and you could make use of him next spring. If you would rather have my full for $20.- (and I would winter him <sup>good</sup> for $5.-) you can have him.

Don't think that I particularly wish to sell him, for I don't
