Rijad on the 31/5

Sunday My Dear Friend

Have just come from the mail & the post has returned to me a letter from you and I found it was from another person than the one I expected. The letter said to say to your mother Tina Chapman was just a little surprised, because it is not her name. I did not say much & about with P. S. Chase and your picture & your subscription.

She was a fine young lady when last we met. Good looking and intelligent. I think you will be very much interested. Tell what the reason you have not written in here. When I left Ajlul I was almost sure I would find a welcome letter here.

When I wrote you last I was in a hurry and did not say you all I wanted to. I intended telling you to send the key to the box. I have never read it & fear it is just the key I want. Give my love to Rijad & I will get it. My health is some better than when I wrote you last. I will enclose the note to the printer - give me a copy. I hope you will not think that I gave him any clue to you.
My own guess is that I forgot him a little. When he read the note I said I had thought you possessed such qualities I should have been more attentive. It was not that it would have been of use. That you would not have found favor (I am) (I believe you will find it in the list) That the right fellow had not made his appearance - I should be suspect in relation to the cause confident but it is by our conversation that you write him (I think I shall tell you with) not leave him in this ignorant. I think you will be pleased of his opinion.

Remember I have a letter in your hand. I am your friend and coadjutor I am obliged to call you for you now from the best and dearest fall and made a great impression on me

I think will last through life Groping to all our night - I had one of the strangest feelings ever on me that I ever experienced in all my life. I believe it is the first woman of things that will be explained in the future. You say you know that Garrison is true (as man stands) and I am inclined to believe it more fully than ever. I should for something to confirm my belief which I have recorded before but what say it will come I don't know but I do wish it could remain beyond dispute. I want tell what I would not be willing to give to be satisfied I was at meeting this morning but the house was so crowded I could not get a seat and came to my room without.

I am enjoying being in your company and I will wish to get a good rest in afternoon - evening. I had seen there this evening I saw a lady that looked like you, that had her back to me & I thought it was you very heart came very near coming out of my mouth but I found out by her hair, the hair that I was mistaken - I finished it is his name the woman

Sunday night.

My dear Friend

Have just returned from the office. Mr. M. & I had a good time and enjoyed it very much. I have no place to write but here in the barroom and we have quite a noise so I will not prolong this letter to any great length. I enclose Note of Mr. Thompson. I want you to tell me which you read first. I am inclined to think you will read his.

Now tell the truth.

Will you may think it strange we not coming down to conference at Logan but I have had a good time here only missed your presence which I would have had been there.

Your society would not have been for me and I would not have been wholly contented.
It is bad to think or hear to hear to know that others have the pleasure of it and myself alone, but I can stand it if I am not compelled to see you with anyone else.

And knowing my faithfulness I will be able to crush all feelings I ever have by your being Will

Monday morning
My Dear Friend Nora
When I finished this letter last night I thought I would not write you anymore till I heard from you but this morning I had such a bad dream I thought to you. I dreamt that I was an eyewitness to what I have so long feared or sure to fear and the words fell from your own lips something like this. (I was calling on you & you seemed very indifferent & cold)

I am going to school next fall. (I) You have changed your mind of late. You told me Yes. (In a kind of a jesting way I said) Well well will have to change our marriage day if you intend going. No. (Yes I determined upon it and as to our marriage in the future that can never be, Petra! Spare me from living through the agonies of disappointments. If I had not trusted you with all of my confidence the blow would not hurt so badly. I always aimed to keep a portion in store, but you were so kind and affectionate that you call it all out and I don't believe I have one spark to fall back on & retain my regard for you so. These words "in the future can never be" "can never be" "can never be" if you wish to spare my feelings Have you been thinking seriously of going to school any more in your life? If you have. After we are married you may go as long as you wish, but don't give consent to you going before (the old adage: One bird in the hand is worth two in the bush in my opinion I must be caged my dear friend for I rather by arrangement of I don't follow all

This Photo shows a superior mind. In earnest purpose. A mind full of thoughts, full of feeling But good self-control

A touch of sadness, for things you cannot find, A mental craving for things of mind You find none to fully appreciate you.

You are not likely to be noticed for as much as you are worth.

Are affectionate & would cherish it. are some suited one. If he would put in his appearance.

You are kind & gentle, nothing cruel in your nature. But such self-control which might be taken for unfeeling or coolness, to the common impulsive mind.

With a knowledge of your nature & gifts you would do much in something.

You must live much in self, for those high feelings of yours are rare, if you enjoy your own sentiments. You will meet with but few. That you can feel one with.

You will please make allowance for this being only a photograph to make judgements on. If this picture is a good one I am not far from being O.K.

If you are the person I think you are you will certainly wish to know some of yourself & where you can obtain this knowledge, If you do not already possess it.
But if not, If you desire to make some report in the realm of mind I would gladly, will you or direct you to where it can be found through your friend Mr W. D. Ream or directly as you think proper.

You will please Remember this was written in a hurry with a look at your Photo.
