Dear Sister Rosa: —

I answered your letter a week ago but neglected to post it; therefore I burn it and write a new letter. I received a letter from Julia the other day with one of Elmer's pictures, and I was very pleased with it. I cannot answer it this afternoon. I ^{was} not here at the Sunday school ^{this} morning and am not going to church this afternoon. The snow is two feet deep, and drifting terribly, and I am afraid we can not find the school room in the morning.

I am afraid we will not be able to walk the distance this winter but I can rent our house nearer.

I will take the organ at ¹⁸700 (seventy dollars) and send you the money in January How shall I send it?

The children are making so much noise that I am obliged to quit kiss baby for me and write soon to your loving Sister

Henry
