

I suppose it is hardly worth my while to ask you to excuse my mistake, as my letter would not seem natural if these were none I still remain your

Dear Friend

Recd. your welcome letter just before starting and not having time to answer I have put it off till now. It is very long I was glad to hear from you, but what a short letter! It makes me think that you must be very tired writing me or you are very much over-tired. Still I can say it was very interesting and I was well pleased with it, only regretting that it was so short. I did not get off to Eagle Rock as soon as I had intended.

I will be in Saginaw on Christmas if I do not have bad luck. I shall have to go to Hailey & Ketchum. We have very nice weather here & prospect to day for many a continuance of this I am well excepting a very bad cold had a little from Edmund's husband They are not well. Still talking of coming West yet How are the birds in L?
Any excitement about?
When you get this you may write me at Hailey & I will not be home here on my return I shall not look for any other letters but yours. Don't fail for I shall look for you Did you see G. L. this time while he was in L.

Have you read the Cyclopedia yet? And how do you like it? Had a long & lonesome trip yesterday. Look for the same be a long to spice the long hours, but it would not be very agreeable, on your part I am afraid Mr E. R. and your little purchases would be more easily undertaken That is with less inconvenience to you. I have never found a trip yet wholly destitute of some pleasure. I don't know what will turn up on this one - Breakfast is ready & I have told you all I know & with a bad pen I don't think you can read it.
I must keep till I come & I will read it to you
