

WALL OF WINDOWS, BRYCE CANYON NATIONAL PARK, UTAH

THE WALL OF WINDOWS is one of the numerous striking formations to be seen in Bryce Canyon, a gorgeous chasm of exquisite beauty and grotesque grandeur produced through forces of erosion. Bryce Canyon National Park is reached from Cedar City, Utah, on the line of the Union Pacific System, 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Dear Grandma

Here I am in Cedar City at 10:30 A.M. Sunday. Have had a good trip so far. We are a half hour ahead of schedule. Everyone on the bus is nice and we are having a good time. It was just fine traveling until about 9:00 this morning and now it is plenty warm. I will write again soon.
Lots of love,
Your Grandson, Dean
