Dear Grandma,

I thought I'd just write a hasty note to see that all's well.
How are you? We're all fine here. My Aunt Nell is going to be married Wednesday to a fine man in the church.
She's just going to have a quiet wedding, with ^{just} a few close friends here.

(It's going to be in the living room.) The Bishop's going to marry them. Any news there?

You shure have helped me in my Genealogy but I haven't yet your birthplace. Dad's not quite sure. Do you have any of your ^{it} history written? (I haven't ~~even~~ gotten mine begun) I have to keep after Dad and Mom, but they never have any spare moments. Oh well, I should talk, not haven done any myself, except when I occasionally force myself to write on my calendar.

Love to you from
all of us,
Seanore.

P.S. Could you tell me when dad was christened, also when you were and where,
and when Grandpa was christened and where, and maybe when your children were baptized ~~and~~?

~~when~~
Thanks

Also could you tell me the names or any more on Grandpa's brothers & sisters.
